Dear Parent or carer

I hope you are all well? I just wanted to email to highlight some important deadlines and some useful sources of careers support.

If your child has applied to University then the deadline for accepting offers has been extended by UCAS to 19th May. Students must accept their first choice and insurance (if they wish to use their insurance) by this date if they haven't already done so.

They will also need to complete their student finance application by 25th May and there is a guide to this on "Show my homework".

In addition, there may be other bursaries, such as the NHS bursary or other funds, specific to their course that may be available. Please check their preferred University website for more information on accessing these. They will need to be checking their emails and correspondence regularly to ensure they are up to date with accommodation applications too.

If your child was considering work or apprenticeships, again, there is a guide to support this on "Show my homework" but I am also happy to check any CV's or offer phone support/guidance. It is still not too late for a late application for University. If anyone has
